

Janet Colbert

Preservation, promotion and protection describe God's favor on Janet Colbert's lifestyle during her education and career as the lone American African nursing director of an Oklahoma state facility.

Graduated with distinction with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing Oklahoma University Health Science Center, she worked for several years as a pediatric charge nurse at Children's Hospital in Oklahoma City before becoming an assistant director, then directory of nursing at the Oklahoma Youth Center in Norman, OK.

Colbert followed those positions as an outpatient auditor a large national health care organization and a quality assurance/improvement manager for the Oklahoma Health Care Authority.
